The perspective of the employee (student)

Selfdirection and motivation to develop

Intrinsic & extrinsic motivation, investing in development, career, sustainable employability, learning to learn, individual and collaborative learning, studentgroup & colleagues...

Combination stress

Work, study, privat life

Dual (work/study) 3 parties concept

Perspective of Institution/faculty

Educational design and co creation with industry

Real life learning, projects on actual real life issues of the organization, learning from other industries / perspectives. Flexible and blended concept of teaching /learning. Program based on learningoutcomes and personal learning paths, validating prior learning, flexible testing, phasing (Foundation degree ->Ad!) certificate per module etc.

Initiating/guiding / coaching / facilitating

Coaching on professional and personal competences, theory, skills, attitude. Coaching on self directed learning, work based learning & collaborative learning. Co-operation with company coaches and maintaining contact, coaching and co-creation processes.

-> adress combination stress

Perspective of the organization/ employer

Unleashing potential of organization

Co-creating, co-learning, ingnite innovationprocesses, IIP, (young) potentials, career paths, facilitate learning, fit for future, employability, “outsourcing” training and development, formal validation HEI (diploma’s)

Dual (work/study) 3 parties concept

The agreement & the commitment

- the commitment to enable....
- unleashing potential for all three parties
- each within their own role and strengths
- rights and obligations....

Dual (work/study) 3 parties concept

Agreement & the context

Beware of the workcontext/position and studymotive of the employer(student)

Beware and context of the employer/organization and the “color of their motive”

The what if's..... Legal issues “hit the detail” -> don't overregulate
